To Whom it May Concern,

I participated in the CollegeWorks Painting internship in the summer of 2006. I found the experience to be extremely helpful in my personal and professional development.

I felt that I was able to gain invaluable interpersonal and communication skills while I interacted customers, painters, fellow interns and the support staff of CWP. I feel that the opportunity to interact in this business setting gave me an excellent perspective on how a business runs and what attributes a successful business possesses.

I'm confident that the business experience that CWP has prepared me to contribute to the business community. Not only did I gain great management experience at an early age CWP infused my business ethics that reflect the values that they promote. It is a value based business that taught me that business is not just about making money, it has a lot to do with relationships between colleagues and customers that is a foundation for success.

CollegeWorks changed my life, before the internship I was on track to being an unhappy high school history teacher. Now I find that I have discovered a measure of untapped and unknown talent that I can directly apply to the business field. I owe that to CollegeWorks, for giving me the opportunity to change my own path and influence others for good. I would be happy to recommend or discuss this internship to anyone who wants to find success and invite anyone to call me with any questions
