

To Whom It May Concern:

For the past few months I have taken part in the Collegeworks program as a first year manager. Going into the internship I expected to learn a great deal about how to run my own business, be my own boss, manage people, and deal with clients, Coming out of this internship I realize that I have learned all of those things and much more. Looking back on my experience and hardships I can see now how incredible this internship really is. Collegeworks differs a great deal from other businesses in that instead of being extremely focused on turning a profit. Their number one priority is to teach. And it is such a great example of how a business should run because even though Collegeworks is training new blood, they are also growing by leaps and bounds as a business each year.

I'm not going to lie to you and say this was easy. This internship has been extremely difficult, time consuming, stressful, and tiring. However I don't think that anyone can put a price tag on the experience they gained through CWP. I know that the things I have learned this summer will stick with me and help me in many if not all aspects of my future.

Thanks CWP,
