

To Whom It May Concern:

As I started the internship there were many mixed emotions I was feeling. Excitement for the opportunity of running my own business and being an entrepreneur. But at the same time concern for the possibility of losing my whole summer and not making a dime or just not succeeding in a market that doesn't seem to be very profitable at the time. But there is a certain risk that comes in accomplishing all great things, so I decided to go for it.

After completion of the internship and looking back on the year I was very thankful and glad that I took the risks and opportunity. I achieved and gained more than what I was expecting and fully recommend this internship to anyone who is willing to work hard and go after what they are wanting.

Sincerely

Trevor Thomas
